Had Become Pastor Emeritus in 1946, Due to Ill Health

A well known and beloved churchman, the Rev. Fr. Joseph E. Murphy, pastor emeritus of St. Mark's Roman Catholic Church, died at the church today morning at 5 o'clock. Father Murphy had been ill for a number of years but did not give up his active participation in church affairs until 1946 when he was named pastor emeritus.

The death of Father Murphy marked the termination of 53 years of the priesthood, 35 of which were spent in Bristol as rector of St. Mark's church. He was known to every member of the church and to the confidence and esteem of the communicants. He was 81. Announcement of the death was made at all of the masses yesterday. Despite the fact that Father Murphy had been ill for a long time and had reached the age of the announcements were a shock to the congregations. Many appeared stunned as they sat in their pews and heard the words of the celebrating priest.

Father Murphy was a devoted churchman. He had endeared himself to his parishioners by his many kindnesses and acts of thoughtfulness. He was a great reader, had traveled extensively, and was a constant follower of current events. He was a student of history and took great interest in history-making events as they transpired upon the world scene.

With announcement of the retirement of the Rev. Fr. Murphy as rector in 1946, the Rev. E. Paul Baird, who had been stationed in St. Mark's parish for seventeen years, became pastor of the church.

"OFF-THE-CUFF" CAMPAIGN?

If President Truman really plans to run for re-election with a series of "off-the-cuff," extemporaneous stump speeches, as has been hinted from Washington, the coming campaign is going to be a circus!

It is an unhappy fact that the President has succeeded in making innumerable mistakes, both in basic policy and in public relations, even when he has taken the time to sit down with his brain-trust and talk things over.

But on the many occasions when he has "popped off" without reflection or advice—those are the times when he has pulled really classic boners.

The American public got a foretaste of what is in store for them when, last Thursday, the President delivered an off-hand address to a National Conference on Family Life, meeting in Washington.

This talk was packed fuller of folly and misinformation than a shad is with bones. It contained some of the most remarkable instances of misconceptions and misinformation ever to be found in any address by a man seriously bidding for the votes of the American people.

The purpose of the President's remarks was to support the Wagner-Elender-Taft national housing bill now before Congress. Several things make his endorsement of this measure most interesting—although he did not discuss these angles with his audience.

One is the fact that the sponsors of the Bill include the name of one of the principal, and Republican, rivals seeking to depose Mr. Truman from the White House. Senator Taft's name is on the Bill—and Mr. Truman thinks it's swell. But Senator Taft's name is on another major piece of legislation, the Taft-Hartley Labor Act; and that is the law which President Truman vetoed.

NO MORE SURPRISES!

Burdensome crop surpluses may never again be such a perplexing problem to the United States as they were back in the 1930s. Farm production then so far exceeded consumption that millions of acres were taken out of production. Farmers were paid to reduce their crops.

The problem of the future, according to the experts, will be how to expand, rather than curtail, food production.

With the United States engaged in a global relief project, trends of the last decade have been reversed. And there are predictions that as foreign demand for American farm production declines, increased domestic consumption will call for higher production.

According to latest estimates, the population of the United States is expected to reach 166,- 000,000 by 1975. The Soil Conservation Service figures that if domestic consumption of agricultural production continues at the present per capita rate until 1990, with no increase in crop yields as a result of technological advancement, this country will need 374,- 000,000 acres of harvested crop lands.

But, taking into consideration the toll of erosion and land deterioration, only 295,000,000 acres will be available. These figures emphasize the increasing importance of reclamation which increases the production acreage of the nation, and the necessity for soil conservation to check erosion and maintain land productivity.

VACATION TIME IS NEAR

With spring rapidly running its course summer cannot be far behind. And summer, to the average American, connotes motoring and out-of-doors activities. Except for the school set, young and older, vacations are fleeting intervals, but Americans constantly strive to extend them throughout culated to set a great heira of ishment to the natives. Beach, quate accommodations, as usual.

with the Courier.

Good Will Hose Co., No. 3, has been given to the most popular fire

Cornwall Woolston, of Eden, free rural mail delivery man for this immediate section, went over his proposed route last Friday, accompanied by E. G. Harrison, the government good roads commissioner.
It took nearly four hours to make the trip, which is in the neighborhood of 29 miles long. The start was made from Eden, Bristol was reached about 8:30 a. m.

The report of the route has been forwarded to Washington for approval, and when returned favorably, Mr. Woolston will begin his daily travels.

The route of this delivery is as follows: Hultmeville to Newportville, to Bristol, via the cemetery, Bristol to Badger school house; through Jesse Booz's farm to Bridgewater, to Edlington. From Edlington school house to Hard corner, to Bensalem post office, to Scott's corner via Hultmeville road, to Flushing school house, to Hultmeville via Walter Johnson's estate.

Workmen have laid the foundations in the Black Horse Hotel yard at Tullytown for an iron framework, 10 feet high, which is to support a large water tank holding 2000 gallons. The water heretofore has been supplied to the hotel from a small tank operated by a windmill. A large gasoline engine will be installed which will have sufficient power to keep the tank full of water and furnish electric lights in all parts of the hotel, besides lighting up several of the business houses in the vicinity. Mr. Lovett has already a complete system of hot water heating in the hotel, and now intends having water under pressure in all the rooms.

unsuccessfully, and has industriously tried to use as proving that Taft, along with most of the Republican Party, is reactionary, capitalistic, and unsympathetic with the common man. There seems to be a conflict in the President's thinking somewhere.

Still more fundamental a point is another matter he glossed over. He did mention that "I was in the Senate" when the Wagner-Elender-Taft Bill was first introduced. But he didn't explain where the Bill has been since then. Why wasn't it passed long ago, if he is so enthusiastic about it?

The answer to that is easy. It was sidetracked. By whom?
By President Truman! And for what purpose? To substitute for it first one, and then a second, Truman-supported housing law—both of which proved miserable failures in operation!

Prior to the meeting of the present Congress in January of last year, Mr. Truman could have had the Wagner-Elender-Taft Bill in a minute; he and his White House lobby were in control of Congress. Just why didn't he explain to his Family Life hearers the reasons he had for shunting that measure aside then, and demanding that his own semi-socialistic and unsound plans be adopted?

As astounding a misstatement of the fundamental purposes of the United States government as has ever been heard from high places is the following, which Mr. Truman presented in apparent earnestness:

"Governments are formed for the purpose of being of service to the family as a unit."

Now, that statement is the height of absurdity. Nothing of the sort is true of our own government, nor is it true of any other important system of government in the world. Many governments, in fact, have deliberately attacked the family unit as being a "softening" influence—notably, Sparta, in ancient times; and Nazi Germany under Hitler.

In our own country, government has greatly weakened the family unit. Innumerable duties and responsibilities once considered essentially family matters, and factors which made the family a sort of feudal unit in society, have been taken over by the government—education, for example; and much of the one-time concept of discipline and obedience.

As for the reasons why the American government exists, these are set forth in detail in two fundamental documents, the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. The former states specifically that governments are instituted to secure to individuals certain God-given unalienable rights—rights which, incidentally, have been and still are being kicked around pretty thoroughly by the bureaucrats under Mr. Truman.

The Constitution's preamble sets for the specific purposes for which "We the people" ordained and established our present government—and there is neither reference nor hint to "being of service to the family."

This is a trifle more important than it may seem at first glance. The truth of the matter is that the concept which Mr. Truman laid down is a restatement of one of the most dangerous, though plausible, pieces of "ideology" ever used to confuse any people, including the Americans.

That concept is the theory of the "welfare state," an all-powerful government, strong enough to do whatever dictatorial act it wishes—so long as it remembers to say that what it is doing is being done for the "welfare" of the people. But these dictatorships, once in power, invariably crush down and undermine the family unit, as being inevitable pockets of resistance to the government's tyranny.

Equally absurd, as a matter of logic, were the President's many references to the early pioneers who settled in this country, and then in successive waves tamed the wilderness to the West.
He was talking about the housing shortage, and the pioneers somehow got dragged in to prove that Congress ought to pass the present housing bill.

The ridiculousness lies in the fact that these pioneers built their own houses—erected them at a cost of labor and sacrifice that make even the most inflated housing prices today seem cheap.

If there is any single trait about these pioneers which stands out above all others, it was their self-reliance.

Most emphatically, they didn't expect the government to furnish houses for them—either to build them, or to offer to finance them (at the rest of the population's expense) on 90 to 100 per cent mortgages.

Just why this one-time sentiment of self-reliance was brought into the picture by the President, as proving that those who need houses today ought to fold their hands and wait for Uncle Sam to do something about it, under the Wagner-Elender-Taft Bill or any other law, the President didn't make clear.

The whole address was a purely demagogic appeal to persons whom one must assume the President didn't think to be very bright. By all the hints at his command, the President undertook to show that Congress, the Republicans, capitalism, and profiteers were to blame for the housing shortage—anyone, in fact, except himself. And he got across admirably the idea that if he is re-elected, he's going to see to it that anyone who wants a house is going to get one, practically as a gift.

What made this talk stand out as unusual was the plaintive and lachrymose manner in which the President bewailed the fact that he doesn't have power enough to go right ahead on his own and fix everybody up with houses. He said:

"People talk about the powers of a President, all the powers that a Chief Executive has and what he can do.
Let me tell you something—from experience!"

And then he continued, presenting details to show that a President alone doesn't have much power and that (of all things!) the Chief Executive actually has to talk matters over with Congress.

And the Congressmen fall into two classes, he explained—those who will listen to him and those who "are running for re-election next fall."

The moral apparently might be that the best way to get re-elected just now is to oppose anything the President asks. He didn't amplify that point. But he did advise all those who want the Government to give them houses to write to Congressmen about it, adding:

"They will probably listen to you better than they will to me."

All this would be preposterous, if it were not so profoundly important. Coldly analyzed, this address is the most demagogic and tragically unstatesmanlike address by any Chief Executive since the days when Andrew Johnson, seeking to avoid impeachment, took his fight to the people in a series of rowdy, rabblerousing speeches in which he called Congress, among other things, the following: Traitors, radicals, factious, domineering, tyrannical, commorants and bloodsuckers.

Are we headed back into that sort of thing? Are the hysterical and shallow complaints of President Truman the sort of political diet we are going to be fed throughout the summer and up to the first Tuesday of next November?

NO MORE SURPRISES!

Burdensome crop surprises may never again be such a perplexing problem to the United States as they were back in the 1930s. Farm production then so
far exceeded consumption that
millions of acres were taken out of production. Farmers were paid to reduce their crops.

The problem of the future, according to the experts, will be
how to expand, rather than curtail, food production.

With the United States engaged
in a global relief project, trends of the last decade have been reversed. And there are predictions that as foreign demand for American farm production declines, increased domestic consumption
will call for higher production.

According to latest estimates,
the population of the United States is expected to reach 166,- 000,000 by 1975. The Soil Conservation Service figures that if
domestic consumption of agricultural production continues at the present per capita rate until 1990,
with no increase in crop yields as
a result of technological advancement, this country will need 374,- 000,000 acres of harvested crop
lands.

But, taking into consideration
the toll of erosion and land de-
will be available. These figures emphasize the increasing importance of reclamation which increases the production acreage of
the nation, and the necessity for
soil conservation to check erosion
and maintain land productivity.

Wagner-Elender-Taft Bill was first introduced. But he didn't explain where the Bill has been since then. Why wasn't it passed

The answer to that is easy. It was sidetracked. By whom?
By President Truman! And for what purpose? To substitute for it first one, and then a second, Truman-supported housing
law—both of which proved miserable failures in operation!

Prior to the meeting of the present Congress in January of last year, Mr. Truman could have had the Wagner-Elender-Taft Bill in a minute; he and his White House lobby were in control of Congress. Just why didn't he explain to his Family Life hearers the reasons he had for shunting that measure aside
then, and demanding that his own semi-socialistic and unsound
plans be adopted?

As astounding a misstatement of the fundamental purposes of the United States government as has ever been heard from high places is the following, which Mr. Truman presented in apparent earnestness:

"Governments are formed for the purpose of being
of service to the family as a unit."
Now, that statement is the height of absurdity. Nothing of the sort is true of our own government, nor is it true of any other important system of government in the world. Many governments, in fact, have deliberately attacked the family unit as being a "softening" influence—notably, Sparta, in ancient times; and Nazi Germany under Hitler.

In our own country, government has greatly weakened the
family unit. Innumerable duties and responsibilities once considered essentially family matters, and factors which made the family a sort of feudal unit in society, have been taken over by the government—education, for example; and much of the one-time concept of discipline and obedience.

As for the reasons why the American government exists, these are set forth in detail in two fundamental documents, the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. The former states specifically that governments are instituted to secure to individuals certain God-given unalienable rights—rights which, incidentally, have been and still are being kicked around pretty thoroughly by the bureaucrats under Mr. Truman.

The Constitution's preamble sets for the specific purposes
for which "We the people" ordained and established our present government—and there is neither reference nor hint to "being of service to the family."

This is a trifle more important than it may seem at first glance. The truth of the matter is that the concept which Mr. Truman laid down is a restatement of one of the most dangerous, though plausible, pieces of "ideology" ever used to confuse any
people, including the Americans.

That concept is the theory of the "welfare state," an all-
powerful government, strong enough to do whatever dictatorial
act it wishes—so long as it remembers to say that what it is doing is being done for the "welfare" of the people. But these dictatorships, once in power, invariably crush down and undermine the family unit, as being inevitable pockets of resistance to the government's tyranny.

Equally absurd, as a matter of logic, were the President's
many references to the early pioneers who settled in this country, and then in successive waves tamed the wilderness to the West.

He was talking about the housing shortage, and the pioneers
somehow got dragged in to prove that Congress ought to pass
the present housing bill.

The ridiculousness lies in the fact that these pioneers built
their own houses—erected them at a cost of labor and sacrifice
that make even the most inflated housing prices today seem cheap.

If there is any single trait about these pioneers which stands
out above all others, it was their self-reliance.

Most emphatically, they didn't expect the government to

furnish houses for them—either to build them, or to offer to finance them (at the rest of the population's expense) on 90 to 100 per cent mortgages.

Just why this one-time sentiment of self-reliance was brought into the picture by the President, as proving that those who need houses today ought to fold their hands and wait for Uncle Sam to do something about it, under the Wagner-Elender-Taft Bill or any other law, the President didn't make clear.

The whole address was a purely demagogic appeal to persons whom one must assume the President didn't think to be very bright. By all the hints at his command, the President undertook to show that Congress, the Republicans, capitalism, and profiteers were to blame for the housing shortage—anyone, in fact, except himself. And he got across admirably the idea that if he is re-elected, he's going to see to it that anyone who wants a house is going to get one, practically as a gift.

What made this talk stand out as unusual was the plaintive
and lachrymose manner in which the President bewailed the fact that he doesn't have power enough to go right ahead on his own
and fix everybody up with houses. He said:

"People talk about the powers of a President, all the powers that a Chief Executive has and what he can do.
Let me tell you something—from experience!"

And then he continued, presenting details to show that a President alone doesn't have much power and that (of all things!) the Chief Executive actually has to talk matters over
with Congress.

And the Congressmen fall into two classes, he explained—
those who will listen to him and those who "are running for re-election next fall."

The moral apparently might be that the best way to get re-elected just now is to oppose anything the President asks. He
the Government to give them houses to write to Congressmen
about it, adding:

will to me."

All this would be preposterous, if it were not so profoundly
important. Coldly analyzed, this address is the most demagogic
and tragically unstatesmanlike address by any Chief Executive

ment, took his fight to the people in a series of rowdy, rabble-
rousing speeches in which he called Congress, among other

All Pennsylvania Railroad Passenger and Freight Train Service Will Be Discontinued in Event of Strike of Enginemen and Firemen, Tuesday, May 11

The Pennsylvania Railroad announces that it will be unable to operate any train service in the event the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen carry out their announced intention to strike at 6 A.M., Standard Time, Tuesday, May 11. No assurance can be given that trains en route at time of strike will complete their scheduled runs.

Acceptance of all carload and less-than-carload freight will be discontinued at time of strike, or earlier by appropriate embargoes.

You say Used Fats are still needed?

You bet they are, Mrs. Housewife. We wish we could whisper over your shoulder every time you cook . . . to scrape that pan, skim that stew, melt down those meat trimmings . . . every trick you know, to get more fat. That's how serious this world-wide shortage of fats and oils is, according to government reports.

Yes!
And You Get Paid For Them!

Used fats are the only kitchen "leftover" you can turn into cash . . . and cash is mighty handy these days of stiff food prices. So don't throw out even a few drops of used fats. Every bit, even what's left after you've reused your fats, is worth saving . . . to help your country, and to help you!

Today's Quiet Moment

By The Rev. Herman Doh
Pastor
Andalusia Baptist Church

Heavenly Father, in Thy merciful providence Thou hast brought us to another day. May the Holy Spirit so convict us of our limitations that we shall see the necessity of submitting ourselves to Thine divine authority, thus enabling us to live for Thee. Thou alone hast the right and power to govern our wills because of Thy perfect knowledge. Thy transcending ability and Thy changeless love. Amen.

SCHNEIDER KNOCKS HOME RUN, TRIPLE AND TWO SINGLES

"Inky" Schneider smashed out a home run, triple, and two singles on Leedom's field yesterday afternoon as the Langhorne Legion nine whipped the Democrat Club, 12-4, in a Bristol Suburban League tilt. It was the first win of the season for the Legionnaires.

Schneider's four-bagger came in the first inning with "Jimmy" Egli on base. Egli had just scored Dick Lukens with a triple. Later in the game, Egli also crashed out another three-bagger. Of the thirteen hits made by the Legion, seven were for extra bases with Dan Fleming helping out with a pair of doubles.

The Democrat Club also hit the ball hard but their blows were not as timely as the winners' hits. "Charlie" Kohler led the losers with the stick, getting three out of five.

"Bob" Mitchell was the winning hurler with the defeat going to "Dick" Campion, former Langhorne High hurler. Campion played well in the seventh, "Toby" Orzola took up the hill chores for the Democrats and finished the tilt. Mitchell had ten strikeouts with Campion getting nine.

In the fourth inning, Salvatore "Shivers" Sagolla was struck in the head with one of Mitchell's fast balls. He was taken to the Harrisburg Hospital for examination.

QUEBEC CITY TOURIST MECCA OF THE CONTINENT

QUEBEC, P. Q. (1948)—Quebec City stands today as the largest thriving center of complete historical interest on the North American continent. Making the most of her natural assets Quebec City, the one-time Capital of the New World, has become the summer and winter mecca for visitors from all over North America. Any approach to the city on the rocky cliffs overlooking the St. Lawrence, is an exciting one for the visitor. Scene of the history-deciding events which first saw the opening of North America, later the disposition of its vast territories, Quebec is really two distinct cities in one. Lower-town Quebec is that portion of the city built around the vast port and industrial segments of its life. Here are some of the oldest and most quaint sights to be found anywhere in America. Intriguing ancient narrow streets; curio spots such as the world's tiniest church; buildings that date back to the first settlers who landed there in 1608 with Samuel de Champlain, where once lived the men who explored and opened America.

Above on the great rock stands the citadel where are still to be seen the very guns of Montcalm which had the city so long from the British under General Wolfe. Quebec is the only walled city in America. Three hundred years have changed the territory around Quebec City but little. Picturesque is the word for everything encountered in Quebec's environs. A trip around the Isle of Orleans offers the visitor a glimpse of life as little changed as can be found from the days of America's first settlers.

Architecture is a major point of interest as the Basilica, Place Royale, Parliament Buildings, the glorious Chateau Frontenac and countless churches loom against the imposing lofty skyline of Upper-town Quebec. No visitor to Quebec fails to visit the Plains of Abraham where Wolfe won a continent for Britain after his perilous ascent, through the grey dawn, up the cliff-side just below the city to surprise Montcalm and the French garrison. Neither can one leave Quebec without journeying along the famous Cote de Beaupre, leading to the miracle shrine, about 20 miles down the river. Here more than 1,000,000 come in devout faith each year. Only 160 miles from Montreal on one of the continent's most scenic drives (while Montreal itself is just a day's touring from New York and Boston), Quebec is the shortest journey that visitors from the Eastern part of America can take into a completely new and wonderful world, remote, colorful, hospitable, merging gay 20th century facilities with unsullied atmosphere of the Old World. So much to be seen and done here that it is no wonder thousands make the trip in every season of the year.

Quebec has not been inescapable to its play possibilities and every desire of the sportsman have been thought of, fishing, skiing, golfing—a complete gamut of the sports offer extra thrills and exhilaration against Quebec's inimitable background. (Advertisement)

FEDERAL BOWLERS END SEASON WITH CLOSE COMPETITION

The Federal Bowling League closed another successful season at the Bristol Recreation Alleys last week. The league bowls a split schedule, and Gilardi's Men's Shop annexed the first half title and finished in a tie for first place with the Leedom Blues in the second half. They beat the Leedom team in a special roll-off and thereby automatically became champs for the 1947-48 season.

FIREMEN WIN

In an independent softball game played on the Wilson Distillery field yesterday afternoon, No. 6 Fire Co. defeated the Bristol Moose team, 3-2. "Dick" Van Aken was the winning pitcher.

TWO GAMES TO OPEN SOFTBALL IN CHURCH LEAGUE

With two games slated for tonight, weather permitting, the Lower Bucks County Church Softball League will open its third post-war season. Two more contests tomorrow evening will get the balance of the teams rolling in their drive toward the league championship.

Nine teams are lined up ready and eager to get started for the new campaign, three of which rejoined the circuit again this season after a year's absence from league competition. The new clubs include the Bristol Methodist, Hulmeville Methodist-Episcopal, and St. James' Episcopal. St. James' and Hulmeville Methodist both played in 1946, but dropped out last year. Bristol Methodist, an old member of the church league, has rejoined the loop for the first time since the league suspended action during the war years.

Among the teams that composed the circuit last season, Bensalem Methodist, Bristol Presbyterian, Calvary Baptist, Church of Our Saviour, First Baptist and St. Luke's Lutheran round out the league. Only Cornwells Methodist and Eddington-Newportville, of the 1947 league members, have withdrawn their active membership for the 1948 season.

Taking up where they left off at the close of the 1947 season, Bristol Presbyterian and Calvary Baptist drew each other as opening night opponents. Calvary won the league pennant in '47, but lost the championship to Presbyterian in the post-season play-offs, two games to one. This game is to be played on the Bristol Township Junior High School field. The other contest carded for tonight pits a couple of rivals of old standing against each other—Bensalem and Hulmeville—at the Manumint School on Hulmeville road, Bensalem Township.

Tomorrow evening the other two newcomers to the league will open their campaign when Bristol Methodist plays host to the Church of Our Saviour at an as yet undesignated field, while St. James' Episcopal will entertain the strong St. Luke's club at the Killian Country Club on State Road.

First Baptist, uncertain of their team status until near the deadline, drew a complete "blank" in the schedule for the first week, and will, consequently, have to make up this lack of activity in the next two weeks.

The league adopted the Shaughnessy play-off plan again for the '48 season with a little variation which will include five teams in the post-season series for the title. Under this plan, the team that finishes first in the regular season's play, will draw an automatic bye that places them in the finals against the winner of the elimination series. The teams finishing second, third, fourth and fifth in the final standing will pair off in this series for the right to meet the first place club for the league championship in three games.

Schedule for this week:
Monday, May 10: Calvary at Presbyterian; Hulmeville at Bensalem.
Tuesday, May 11: St. Luke's at St. James'; Church of Our Saviour at Bristol Methodist.
Wednesday, May 12: Bensalem at St. Luke's; St. James' at Church of Our Saviour.
Thursday, May 13: Presbyterian at Hulmeville; Bristol Methodist at Calvary.

ST. ANN'S DEFEATS HIBERNIANS DUE TO WILDNESS

St. Ann's A. A. took advantage of wildness on the parts of the hurlers for the Hibernians yesterday afternoon as it shellacked the Hibs, 18-2, in a Suburban League game on the Memorial Park field.

While the St. Ann's batters were drawing walks and hitting three Hibernians pitchers, "Jake" Accardi, "Bill" Stockton, and Dave Ludwig, the "Hiboes" were having trouble in trying to decipher the hook balls being thrown by Angelo Sallustio, no-hit hurler of last season.

Sallustio did not allow the Hibs a single safe blow after the third frame and only two hits were made off his delivery. Kline getting a single in the second and Accardi in the third. A mess-up of a double-play ball prevented Sallustio from getting a shut-out. Angelo had eight strikeouts, and in the last six innings only 19 batters faced the St. Ann's pitcher.
